

LANCASTER TOBACCO MARKET OPENS

TWO THOUSAND GROWERS WITNESS EVENT AND ALL PLEASED.

TOBACCO IS KING. 105,740 POUNDS. AVERAGE $55.47

MANY HIGH AVERAGES MADE.

The opening of the Lancaster Tobacco Market yesterday morning marked another event that has put Lancaster and Garrard county on the map. Early in the morning automobiles from all over the county and lots of them from adjoining counties began to roll into the city, all drawn here by the announcement that the Garrard Tobacco Warehouse would open its first loose leaf tobacco market in Lancaster.

It was estimated that fully two thousand people were in the building when the sale began which was promptly at ten o'clock, which time had been previously announced by Manager McCray.

That prince of auctioneers, Mr. John R. Scott, of Jessamine county, proved one of the hits of the day and many compliments were heard concerning him during the day. When he began the first sale, sixteen buyers were lined up on the floor, all seeming anxious to catch the eye of the astute auctioneer and the bidding was fast and spirited from the beginning. Mr. Roy McCray was right there on the job, starting every basket, that seemed high to the casual observer, but not to the knowing ones, for his bids were raised in rapid succession, until fabulous prices were reached. The enthusiasm of the growers was very apparent from the sale of the first basket and not a single complaint was heard during the entire day.

So large was the crowd and so eager was every one to get a glimpse of the prices, that a roped enclosure had to be provided for the buyers, auctioneer and clerks. Every body was in a good humor, everyone seemed happy and all seemed to have enjoyed the crush. Many women were on the floor and took a keen interest in every sale.

The writer of this article stood at the desk for more than an hour and watched the sellers as each came up to receive his check, and took occasion to ask each, "how are you pleased with the price your tobacco brought?" Invariably each answer was, "delighted," "pleased," "better than I thought," "glad I didn't sell to a pinhooker," "here's where I will sell all my tobacco." Mr. Hugh Kurtz and Messrs Dailey were especially pleased with the prices they had received, for they had tobacco on the Lexington market the day before, and all of these gentlemen stated that they would sell the rest of their crop on the Lancaster market.

At the close of the sale at four o'clock it was found that 105,740 pounds had been actually sold to bonified bidders, at an average of $55.47.

Not a single basket was rejected on the entire floor and every seller was pleased beyond measure. There were many low grades of the weed on this floor and had it not been for this the average would have been much higher.

The lowest basket sold was $8.00 and the top basket of the day bringing $102.00 a hundred. The crop from this basket averaging $91.50 and belonged to Mr. John Huffman, of Lincoln county.

The following buyers made purchases during the day, while others were there but failed to have any "knocked off" to them: R. J. Reynolds Company, represented by J. H. Boudé; Liggett and Meyers, represented by J. H. Turner; J. P. Taylor and Company, represented by Messrs Narz and Coover; American Tobacco Company, by Mr. Greer; W. H. Wendley, Elmer Detherage, McCreary Simmons, W. H. Hampson, Burnside and Mr. Rogers. Other buyers will be on the market today, among them Mr. W. P. Kincaid, of Richmond, who will buy for a Cincinnati firm.

Sales will be held daily from this on, except on Saturday, and the floor today is said to be a good one and some high prices are expected.

We give below some of the high averages made yesterday and is a total of every pound sold by each grower.

Fothergill and Thompson—1770 pounds, average $53.84.
Hamilton and Stewart—4930 pounds, average $63.64.
H. Teater and Son, Madison—1930 pounds, average $72.42.
F. B. Cooper, Lincoln—1140 pounds, average $71.94.
Heater and Dawson, Lincoln—1060 pounds, average $60.11.
Teater & Gulley Bros, Madison—4005 pounds, average $68.76.
William Clark—1260 pounds, average $68.16.
J. W. Burton—200 pounds, average $78.45.
Curtis and Son, Madison—600 pounds, average $72.80.
White and Spratt—1365 pounds, average $62.82.
Yeahey Bros—995 pounds, average $65.69.
Annie B. Turner—635 pounds, average $68.75.
W. F. Ballard, Crab Orchard—1165 pounds, average $54.85.
John Huffman, Gilberts Creek—265 pounds, average $91.50.
Burton and Sanders—7310 pounds, average $65.
William E. Whittaker—1440 pounds, average $74.97.

DRASTIC MEASURES

Taken By Government
To Prevent Coal
Famine.Local Houses are Obeying
Orders.

The Regional Coal Committee of Atlanta, Ga., have issued drastic fuel regulations in order to prevent a severe coal famine which threatens the whole country.

Mayor John M. Duncan has received official notice of the order from the Regional Committee at Atlanta and has ordered Marshal Heron to see that the order is obeyed to the letter.

Local merchants and business are obeying the order to the letter, practically all houses remaining open from 9 A. M. to 4 P. M. only. This went into effect last Tuesday.

The strike of the miners of soft coals, who have been idle for the past month has brought on conditions like those prevailing during the war, in many sections, and not much hope was held out by officials last night for early production of bituminous coal in quantities sufficient to permit maintenance of present slim reserves, under supervision of the Railroad Administration's Central Coal Committee.

According to figures given out Monday last week's soft coal output did not reach 50 per cent of the normal production. No figures as to the amount of coal now on hand are available but the outlook seems very unpromising, with the miners still on their vacation.

The people of Kentucky will be unable to spend money for anything today after 4 o'clock, or on any day during the coal stringency, except at the movies and theatres, and for food, shaves and hair cuts, and drugs, and on Saturday nights only for clothing, according to an order from the Regional Coal Committee, which took effect at noon Monday. The order of the Railroad Administration Committee was telegraphed to the Federal Manager W. L. Mapother, of the L. and N. Railroad, and closes all retail establishments, even saloons, at 4 o'clock in the afternoon, except drug stores for the sale of drugs only, and establishments which sell food. These places of business may sell no sidelines. Barber shop porters may not shine your shoes, nor druggists sell you a cigar or sodas.

Prohibited List.

The prohibited list follows: Electric signs, show window lights, electric display advertising; restricted office buildings may open at 9 a. m. and close at 4 o'clock p. m. Industries are allowed to operate only 48 hours a week. Retail shops may open at 9 a. m. and close at 4 p. m., except the following: Drug stores may remain open after 4 p. m. and until 10:30 p. m. for the sale of drugs only. Barber shops may operate between 8 a. m. and 6 p. m. Restaurants, dairies, bakeries and groceries are allowed to operate according to the schedule now in effect. Stores selling clothing are permitted to use light and heat power until 8 o'clock on Saturday night. Motion picture shows and theatres, dance halls and public amusements are allowed to operate between the hours of 1 p. m. and 10:30 p. m. Saloons must close at 4 o'clock p. m. and not open before 9 o'clock in the morning.

Exempted List.

The exempted list under the order follows: Hospitals, railroad stations, telephone and telegraph companies, and all public utilities, hotels, newspapers, and all industries operating continuously.

Heavy Windstorm.

The severe windstorm last Saturday did some damage to property in and around Lancaster, among the worst losers being Messrs Speith and Company and Haselden Brothers, each of these firms now erecting new buildings out on Stanford street. The loss to Messrs Speith and Company was several hundred dollars. The large warehouse which was nearing completion being blown down and several workmen having narrow escapes. A larger force was put to work immediately and the big building is again nearly ready for occupancy.

The residence just across the street, being erected for Haselden Brothers was likewise blown down and considerable damage done.

FOR SALE—A good pony, cart and harness. Mrs. J. D. Prather.

SHORT SUPPLY OF NEWSPRINT

Increase Recommended

IN BOTH THE ADVERTISING AND SUBSCRIPTION RATES TO HELP MEET RISING COSTS.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala.—The special meeting of the Southern Newspaper Publishers' Association in session here unanimously adopted the following resolution:

"Whereas, Members of the S. N. P. A., having met in extraordinary session to consider the report of its print paper—a shortage which menaces the life of some Southern newspapers and which vitally affects the publication of every newspaper in America—finding:

"That newsprint is being used largely in excess of production; that the reserve supply has diminished below the acute danger level; that no sizeable increase in production upon a commercial basis is less than from one to two years is possible; that the price of newsprint paper since the pre-war period has advanced from about 165 per cent. to about 400 per cent; that publishers of newspapers in their zeal to issue their newspapers regularly in such size as lavishly to print the news of the world with comment upon and interpretation of it and also to publish instructive and entertaining matter dealing with every human interest, have brought about an auction market for newsprint paper which has carried its price above the level of sanity, do therefore:

Cut Down Consumption.

"Resolved, That the Southern Newspaper Publishers' Association, in special convention assembled, urges its membership to make an earnest effort to reduce newsprint consumption, beginning at once and continuing through 1920, at a rate of at least 10 per cent, as compared with the consumption for July, August, September and October of this year. The association earnestly recommends that all of the publishers of the South in each competitive area co-operate to the fullest possible extent to the end that every practical method of conservation of newsprint and all other papers made from wood pulp may be employed.

Recommend Conservation.

"The association recognizes the fact that the necessary conservation reduction of the size of newspapers cannot be accomplished except by the or a reduction of circulation. The association recommends that conservation be accomplished chiefly by a reduction in the number of pages printed, the number of editions issued, the size of type, the space of news heads, space for reading matter and illustrations, space for advertising and pyramiding advertising and increase in advertising rates and an increase in subscription rates with a view to covering the cost of white paper and the expense of delivery to the subscriber.

"The association urges immediate co-operation in each competitive area in support of all the efforts made by the committee on conservation and conciliation, representing the American Newspaper Publishers' Association. The conservation and conciliation committee of this association is hereby directed to prepare a form of report to be sent by the secretary's office to all the members of this association on which they are requested to report weekly the efforts for conservation and the actual results achieved, a summary of these reports to be printed in the association's bulletins."

Important Tobacco Ruling.

Growers May Sell Their Product in Natural State Without Tax.

The Commissioner of Internal Revenue has ruled that under the existing law the farmer or grower of tobacco has the right to sell tobacco which he has grown to any person and in any quantity which may be desired, provided the tobacco is not stemmed, twisted, plaited, rolled, sweetened or otherwise manipulated before its sale to consumers.

A farmer is not prohibited from employing an agent to sell his tobacco for him, and a group of farmers may pool their tobacco and likewise employ an agent to sell their tobacco for them without legal objection, provided the agent does not make such sales on a commission, in which event he is regarded as a dealer in leaf tobacco, and is subject to liability as such.

SUGAR SCARCE

Selling Here At Twenty Five Cents a Pound.

The sugar shortage is no longer a theory but a reality in Lancaster and only a few merchants have been able to get any at all. Only one merchant had a small supply last week and it was sold out in a few hours at twenty-five cents a pound; only four pounds going to one household.

The sugar shortage, in the opinion of those who know the trade, is the greatest ever known. Meltings have been brought to a standstill by a strike of the marine workers who have tied up some twenty steamers loaded with raw sugar. In Cuba, Sugar Manufacturers' and Planters' Association has issued a manifesto insisting upon an open market for sugar, stating that one million tons remain to be cut, and 400,000 tons of raw awaits shipment.

The shortage is expected to go into next year. Just exactly why the shortage occurred in such stringent fashion is not altogether clear, although there has been a tremendous increase in the amount of sugar consumed in this country. That most of it is unnecessary consumption, and that we can do without it, does not lessen the demand. It is estimated that the United States uses one fourth of the world's sugar. This year we will consume 9,000,000,000 pounds instead of the 8,000,000,000 used last year. This is a per capita consumption of almost eighty-three pounds. In 1870, when sugar was supposed to be bad for the teeth, we used thirty-three pounds per capita per year.

Legion Meeting.

The Heidal Sanford Post of the American Legion, will meet next Thursday night at seven o'clock at the rooms of the Police Court.

Every member and every prospective member is earnestly urged to be present.

Daugherty-Dennis.

Mr. Alvin Dennis of College Hill and Miss Elizabeth Daugherty of Paint Lick, were quietly married in Richmond on Thanksgiving day.

The bride is a native of Rockcastle county but has been making her home with her sister for some time, and is a very attractive girl of beautiful character and lovely disposition. Mr. Dennis is a young man of great popularity and good business ability. Both have numerous friends who wish them great happiness and prosperity.

Circuit Court Still In Session.

Many cases not of special interest to the public have been disposed of during the present session of the Circuit Court and the dockets are being rapidly cleared. Only two Commonwealth cases have been tried. Ben Grimes charged with killing James Grimes, mention of which was given in our last issue, resulted in a conviction of Grimes, the jury sentencing him to the penitentiary for not less than 20 years nor more than twenty-one years. It is said his case will be appealed.

Lonsley Walker charged with malicious cutting was fined $50.00 and costs. The grand jury has returned only five indictments and after sitting to-morrow, will finally adjourn. The case of V. A. Lear against J. G. Davis resulted in a verdict for the plaintiff in the sum of $890; H. C. Bailey against J. B. Ruble, the jury found for the defendant.

The case of Willie Hendrickson Calico against Samantha Bogie Hill and Mrs. Mary Bogie is occupying the attention of the court today. The former charging the latter with alienating the affections of her husband and praying for damages in the sum of $25,000.

Sale Postponed on Account of Storm.

The two dwellings in Haselden Heights will be sold Rain or Shine at 2:30 o'clock, Saturday Dec. 13th.

GUY.

Mr. Milton Ward is improving slowly.

Miss Lida Broadbuss was a visitor of Mrs. J. L. Yantis Wednesday.

Mr. William Marshbank was with relatives at Paint Lick last week end.

Mrs. William Walker was the guest of Lancaster friends Monday.

Mr. Jamie Baker of Madison spent Tuesday night with Mr. John Broadbuss.

Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Ward and two little sons, spent Sunday with Paint Lick relatives.

Mrs. John Smith and James Yantis were guests Monday of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Ward.

Mrs. Henry Tuttle and Miss Fannie Merida were Sunday guests of Misses Maude and Fannie Smith.

Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Tuttle spent Sunday with Miss Rose Turner on the old Danville road.

Mrs. Robert Ward and sons Harold and J. T. were visitors Tuesday of Mrs. James L. Yantis.

Mr. and Mrs. Tolliver Cornett and son, Tom, were with Mrs. Isaac Cornett of Paint Lick Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Prather were Sunday visitors of Messdames Matilda Collins and William Kinder.

Mr. and Mrs. Bascom Pelphrey and Miss Nelle Pelphrey were recent guests of relatives at Stanford.

Mrs. Grace Sutton and Miss Virginia Sutton of the C. O. road were guests Friday of Mr. and Mrs. John Smith.

Mr. and Mrs. Miley Beasley were entertained Sunday night at a delightful 6 o'clock dinner by Mr. Wm. H. Beasley and son James of McCreary.

Mrs. C. R. Henry and two interesting children spent last week with Mr. and Mrs. William Clark on the Lexington road.

Mr. John Sutton and sister, Miss Fannie Sutton, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Davidson and children, were Thanksgiving guests of Mr. and Mrs. William Sutton and Mrs. Carrie Davidson.

Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Prather had the misfortune to have their house destroyed by fire, Nov. 24th about noon. The family were not at home and only a few things out of the house saved. The hen house and smoke house were also burned and some meat and all the fruit. Their many friends sympathize with them in their great loss.

Mrs. John Broadbuss entertained with a delightful dining Sunday in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Miley Beasley. The home was prettily decorated with palms and ferns. At one o'clock an elegant dinner was served, the table was beautiful, with a handsome cut glass vase in the center, with a bouquet of large yellow chrysanthemums and several cut glass nappies of fruit, salads and mints, which added to its beauty. The four course dinner was elegant in every detail and enjoyed to the fullest by all present. The color scheme throughout the dinner being yellow and white. Those that accepted Mrs. Broadbuss' hospitality were, Mr. and Mrs. Miley Beasley, Mr. William Beasley and son James, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Broadbuss, Mr. and Mrs. Morten Pollard, Misses Nelle and Lida Ray, Alice Sutton, and Lucille Pruett, Mr. and Mrs. Marcus White and children, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Yantis and two sons, and Messrs Buford Smith and John Bratton.

BROADBUS—BEASLEY.

On Thanksgiving morning Nov. 27, Miss Jean Broadbuss and Mr. Miley Beasley were married in Lancaster at the Baptist parsonage, by Rev. Clarence Strother. Miss Lida Broadbuss, Messrs Bascom Brown, William Kinder and James Beasley accompanying them. Immediately after the beautiful and impressive ceremony, the happy couple motored to Danville and took the Royal Palm for Somerset, where they were guests of Mr. Beasley's grand-mother, Mr. and Mrs. Hayden Waddle until Saturday, when they returned home.

The bride is the lovely and accomplished and youngest daughter of Mrs. John Broadbuss, and never looked prettier than on her wedding day, in a chic tailored suit of blue silver-tone, with hat, gloves and boots to match, and Mr. Beasley is certainly to be congratulated on winning such a lovable girl as a life companion, whose winsomeness and many sterling characteristics have endeared her to the entire community.

The groom is the oldest son of Mr. William H. Beasley of McCreary and is one of the most substantial farmers of this vicinity. Both have hosts of friends, who join in extending best wishes and congratulations for a happy and prosperous life together. Mr. and Mrs. Beasley will be with Mrs. John Broadbuss until Jan. 1st, then will go to housekeeping on the farm Mr. Beasley recently purchased from Mr. William Sutton, known as the Walker Farm.

MAKE BELIEVE

By ELIZABETH LYONS.

The sun was pouring streams of light on the little gray cottage on the highlands, the sunshine of golden August. Through the giant elms sifted the yellow beams, making dancing checkers on the weather-beaten roof.

In answer to a familiar whistle, which echoed through the valley, the sole occupant of the house suddenly appeared in the doorway. The girl had brilliant dark eyes and fluffy black hair that wisped from under a dainty white cap. The short sleeves of a bright gingham revealed the delicate tan of her well-formed arms. Standing behind the pink ramblers on the porch, she reminded one of an ideal peasant girl, capable and charming.

She paused; then without waiting for a repetition of the silvery call, she cupped her hands into a trumpet and called clearly an answering halloo. The whistle sounded nearer now and over the hedges approached the bowed figure of the girl's father. She saw him now as he came into the lane, his grizzled hands clutching two milk pails. Soon he was within talking distance, and she turned to hold the door for him and his heavy burden.

"Well, Mollie, it's a hard time for both of us. We haven't given up yet, have we, little girl?" he asked, smiling into her saddened face.

She turned away with a low "no." Then in a few minutes she cheerfully unheeded supper. The table was dimly laid in spite of the heavy darkness, and the old man enjoyed his companionship though few words were spoken.

The simple repast over, Samuel Boden took his pipe, and Mollie took her knitting to the stoop near the well. The sun was now sinking behind Cherry mountain and the two silently watched the gradual changing of the rose and yellow shadings in the heavens, and on Echo lake, in the valley. Mollie's fingers flew swiftly endeavoring to hide her emotions, though with little success.

She stopped knitting. She clasped her father's hand.

"What was that?"

A soft pad-paddling on the crisp leaves came to the man's ears.

"Well, I reckon it may be a bear or it may be a deer. You didn't think it was—"

"It is, it is! I'm sure it is! Oh, dad! I knew he'd come! Oh!"

A few seconds proved her to be right. From the woods near by bounded a handsome Alredale.

"Rex," she called softly. "Rex, Rex," she whispered, throwing her arms around the panting dog.

She raised her tear-dimmed eyes to her father.

"Oh, dad, I knew he'd come. Look! D. B. S. an plain on his collar. He can't be far off. And see; what is this?"

Scratched on the back of the collar were the words, "Mollie, I've come."

Samuel Boden's voice shook with emotion.

"Well, little Moll, you won't have to make believe with me any longer."

The old man turned and limped slowly homeward. The girl rose. A long, silvery halo broke the stillness; a distant whistle answered from the ledges. She sank back again on the stoop and turned her attention to the messenger at her feet. As she patted his soft back her fingers outlined the service and wound stripes which had been sheared on his coat.

"Oh, Rex, you've been with him all during these two long years—all the time—and I've been waiting, waiting. But now he's coming back to me. And I thought he was never to return. They told me so, but I wouldn't believe."

Thunk! A twig snapped in the pathway and a tall, stalwart form emerged from the wooded depths. A moment and she was held in a close embrace.

"Mollie, darling; Mollie!"

Two hours later inside the little cottage David told of the two years of separation, Mollie nestling close in adoring silence.

"And," he concluded, "I landed here just a week ago and came up here to the mountain just as fast as I could."

"Oh, David, to think," murmured Mollie, "how long I've made believe!"

Typewriting in the Air.

A new British commercial airplane, in which a business man can dictate letters to his typist and sign the completed letter while on his way to his appointment, underwent a successful trial at Yeovil. It carries three passengers, in addition to the pilot. They are accommodated in comfortable seats in an unlocked cabin, with sliding windows down the sides. When the seats and upholstery are removed the machine will carry 500 pounds of mail at 100 miles an hour. As an indication of how successfully the noise of the engine has been silenced, the works manager, who had his typist with him, dictated several letters, which he typed while the machine was in the air, on a typewriter fixed to the little folding table in the cabin.

Cutting Out Luxuries.

"I hear young Dawson is taking matrimony seriously."

"There can be little doubt of that."

"Yes?"

"On the eve of his wedding day he parted from his tailor in tears, closed up his account with a taxidermian company and made farewell to his favorite waiter."

Is Every Animal At Its Best?

Don't let your stock lose their Summer's gain through November neglect. Your animals are now going on dry feed—hay and grain.

It's a big change from the succulent, nutritious grasses of summer pastures which supply the needed laxatives and tonics.

Keep your animals' bowels open and regular—drive out the worms—keep their blood rich and keep their digestion good by feeding regularly.

Dr. Hess Stock Tonic A Conditioner and Worm Expeller

Don't allow your stock to "get off feed" and in a run-down condition.

Condition your cows for calving by feeding Dr. Hess Stock Tonic before freshening. Then feed it regularly to increase the flow of milk. It lengthens the milking period.

Buy Stock Tonic according to the size of your herd. Get from your dealer two pounds for each average hog, five pounds for each horse, cow or steer, to start with, feed as directed and then watch results.

Pass Christian, Miss.

Pass Christian is the Newport of the Gulf Coast, and one of the most fashionable and popular resorts in the South. The town, of about 2,000 permanent population, is very generally engaged in entertaining and serving the large numbers who come here, summer and winter, for recreation. Society congregates at "The Pass" at all seasons—the summer guests coming from neighboring southern cities—the winter throng from all parts of the North.

Pass Christian was named for a Spanish explorer who discovered the deep-water pass that lies close to the main shore. It is an old and much honored settlement, having been a popular resort from far back in ante-bellum days. Tradition associates it with the gayest of southern society and with men and women famous in high social circles of this and foreign lands. Its location is one of the choicest on the Coast. The low-lying shore slopes upward to wooded hills where pines and splendid old oaks, magnolias, palmettoes and a variety of tropic vegetation grow and flower and flourish luxuriantly, while fine old homes, elegant modern villas and charming bungalows line the avenues and drives along the shore. Life is ever active at The Pass: there is boating, motor-ing, golf, tennis and fishing by day and dancing and all other indoor festivities for the evening. Pass Christian boasts of one of the finest golf courses anywhere in the South.

Its proximity to New Orleans places all the diversions of the metropolis within reach of visitors at Pass Christian, who make a day for shopping in New Orleans and return in time for dinner, which is one of the social functions at The Pass; or, remaining in the city for dinner, can return at their pleasure later in the evening.

The hotels rank with the finest in the country, and there are many delightful old country homes, where good boards and real southern hospitality are found. The inland country back of Pass Christian is beautiful, and many charming drives may be taken over the excellent roads, among fine, productive fruit and truck farms, which ship much of the early garden stuff that is so eagerly sought in southern markets. The fishing in St. Louis Bay and the tributary streams is excellent, many anglers finding their best sport in the little rivers and streams of the immediate interior.

Across the bay from Pass Christian is the somewhat exclusive cottage resort of Bay St. Louis, a place much frequented by residents of New Orleans, who own cottages and bungalows and come here for the water sports and the fishing. It is also popular in winter with many northern people who prefer the quiet of cottage life, with the accompanying freedom for outdoor sports, to the gayer and more fashionable routine of the larger neighboring resorts.

A cordial welcome is extended to all.

The congregation of Lancaster Presbyterian Church is now occupying its third building since it was organized in 1819.

The first was located just across the railroad opposite the depot, a building erected and dedicated for the use of any evangelical body.

The second place of worship was located on the site now owned and occupied by the Methodist Church—however not the same building.

The third, the present building was erected and dedicated in 1879.

The first pastor, Rev. James C. Barnes was ordained by Transylvania Presbytery when it met in the Court House in March 1819. He served this and Pant Lick Presbyterian church, until 1825 when he moved to Perryville, Boyle county.

The first Elder whose name is recorded was Mr. Geon Hann, 1831.

Some of these officers of later date and long service were Mr. Lewi-landiam who served 39 years, 1834

—1873. Mr. William H. Kinraird,

61 years, 1845—1906. Gen. W. J.

WILL THE INFLUENZA RETURN? Public Health Authorities Predict Its Recurrence.

GUARD AGAINST IT BY BUILDING UP THE BLOOD.

Pepto-Mangan CREATES Rich Red Blood and Increases Strength.

Surgeon General Hlue, of the United States Public Health Service, in a recent statement from Washington, warns the public that the much-dreaded influenza epidemic will probably return this fall and winter. All medical authorities agree that the weak, bloodless, rundown individual is more likely to contract this (as well as any other infectious disease) than is the strong, robust, red-blooded man or woman. In view of these facts, it is wise to use every effort to build up the blood and thus increase the bodily resistance to the invasion of the germs of the disease. Gude's Pepto-Mangan is an absolutely dependable red-blood builder in all conditions of lowered vitality not due to serious disease of the vital organs. It improves the appetite, imparts color to the cheeks, and creates new hope and ambition in those who have become pale, weak, and listless. Physicians recommend Gude's Pepto-Mangan. When you order, be sure the word "Gude's" is on the package. Without "Gude's" it is not Pepto-Mangan. Furnished in both liquid and tablet form. For sale by all druggists.

Indian Herbalist Leaves One Million Dollar Estate.

Harrodsburg, Ky.—The remains of Dr. James S. Anderson, the "Indian" herbalist, who died at Somerset were brought here last week on a special train and interred in the negro cemetery in a $2,000 casket. Many negroes of professional calling from Louisville and other sections were present at the obsequies. A year ago Dr. Anderson gave $30,000 to the negro Baptist College at Louisville. It is said he paid taxes on more than $1,000,000 worth of property and left $200,000 on deposit in Somerset bank. He left no relatives and three months ago requested the Rev. Francis Wilson, of the State B. Y. P. U. to bury him here. A costly monument will be erected at the grave.

My old Kentucky Home

Dedicated to Hon. James H. Connelley, State Probation Officer.

(Contributed)

The Sun sinks low o'er the old Kentucky home.

'Tis winter, the skies are all gray.

The corn juice's low and it's dreary as the tomb,

For the jug's been gurgling all the day.

The young folks "roll" on the little cabin floor,

But the "bones" give no one delight;

Right now dry times are knocking at the door,

So, my old Kentucky home, good night!

"Smile" no more, my laddie, you'll "smile" no more today,

For the lid's an tight in the old Kentucky home,

In my old Kentucky home, gone astray.

State Warrants

Called In.

FRANKFORT, Ky.—Interest bearing State warrants of $1,500,000 were called in for redemption Thursday by State Treasurer Sherman Goodpastor. Interest will stop on these warrants on December 7. They were issued between July 1, 1918, and January 31, 1919. Another call for warrants will be made in three weeks.

Big Real Estate Deal.

Mr. J. W. Sweeney has just closed a deal with Mr. J. I. Hamilton selling that gentleman his entire real estate holdings consisting of his splendid farm on the Danville road, which purchase includes the Mrs. Pat Anderson farm, Mrs. Chenault farm and the farm adjoining nearer town. The entire tracts contain about 380 acres and all as good as there is in the county. The price paid was not given out, but knowing ones tell us it reached considerably over $100,000.

Possession will not be given until January 1921.

How He Ended Kidney Trouble.

"I had a severe attack of kidney trouble and for three weeks could not get out of doors and scarcely out of bed," writes C. E. Brewer, Village Springs, Ala. "Could not bend over at all without the most excruciating pains. I purchased a bottle of Foley Kidney Pills. Was relieved after first few doses and continued their use until completely cured. I consider Foley Kidney Pills the best kidney remedy in the world. No recurrence of my trouble." R. E. McRoberts, Druggist, Lancaster, Ky. Dec. 4th. It.

Ford

THE UNIVERSAL CAR

There are more than 3,000,000 Ford cars in daily service throughout the world, and fully eighty percent of these are Ford Touring Cars. There are many reasons for this, not the least of which is the simplicity in the design of the car, so easy to understand; likewise it is easy to operate; and mighty inexpensive compared to other motor cars. On the farm, in the city, for business and for family pleasure, it is the car of the people, and the demand is increasing every day. Let us have your order promptly if you want one.

Has World's Record Month.

Ford Motor Company Complete And Deliver Eighteen Eagles To Government In Twenty-five Days.

The largest number of steel or wooden hulled boats ever completed by one ship yard in one month's time were fully outfitted and turned over to the Navy Officials by the Ford Ship Plant at River Rouge (Detroit) Michigan during the month of September.

As soon as the boats are commissioned by the Navy, they are dispatched to the New London or Portsmouth Navy Yards where they are manned and ordered to join different squadrons of the U. S. Fleet.

Forty-eight of these Patrol Boats have already been accepted by the Navy Department. The remaining twelve will be furnished and delivered sometime during the first part of November. As soon as these are commissioned the Ford Eagle plant will have furnished its contract with the Government.

SAYS NEIGHBORS

GIVEN SURPRISE By The Change.

COULDN'T UNDERSTAND RE-MARKABLE IMPROVEMENT TRUTONA WROUGHT, WOMAN AVERS.

Owensboro, Ky., Dec. 3rd, 1919— "My neighbors who knew the condition I was in, before I began taking Trutona, are surprised to see me working again", Mrs. Fannie Grundy, well known Owensboro woman of 616 Triplet Street, said recently. "I'm certainly grateful for this new tonic, for it has given me more relief than any other medicine I've ever taken—and I've tried most all of them", she added.

"I had been troubled with ulceration of the stomach for the past 20 years. My bowels were in very bad condition. I would be severely constipated for three or four days at a time and then, when I'd take some harsh laxative I'd have a hard time to check the bowel action. Naturally I became very weak.

"I had been bed fast for six weeks before I began taking Trutona. You can imagine my surprise, when at the end of the first week's treatment I was able to get out of bed and began to do my housework again. I'm eating food now that I haven't dared to touch in the past two years. Why, I can even eat corn bread now and that is one food that used to make me very sick. I have never before given a testimonial for any medicine, but I feel that the public should know of the wonderful relief I've gained from a one-dollar bottle of Trutona."

Trutona is now being introduced and explained in Lancaster, at R. E. McRoberts Drug Store.

THE FREAK HOUSE

By JACK LAWTON.

The woman in shabby black stopped before a house set back on a rolling lawn to read again the address on a paper she carried. Yes, this was undoubtedly the place she sought. "A freak house," the employment agent had called it, "built in imitation of an old thatched cottage in Ireland."

"These singers are mostly trunks themselves," the agent added, "even if they do have lots of money."

The woman smiled as she gazed at the house and a wistful, eager light came into her eyes. The freak house was a good imitation upon spacious blues. The low, drooping roof over a rear flower-framed doorway brought back poignantly a memory of her own girlhood. In such a doorway she had stood, looking down the long road, over which at evening her handsome lover had been wont to come. She remembered the mustered lilt of his voice as he praised the "soft blue eyes of her," or touched adoringly the rose of her young cheeks.

"They are wild Irish roses, Nance," her lover would say. Nance's roses had faded long ago to faint pink shadows of what they had been. The wonderland of America where she had come so hopefully failed to bring fulfillment of her dreams. Nance had pictured easy independence here as she closed forever the door of the thatched cottage upon her desolated home.

The laughing Irish lover had long gone on his fortune-seeking way. Nance lost her buoyant health in the great city, as years had taken her youth's freshness. Work suitable to her strength was hard to find, but somehow she managed, and her bright spirit lived through all the broken dreams.

Last evening the advertisement had caught her eye; she had been sewing in a hot city room, and the promise of country air and green fields was sufficient to form her decision. She would answer in person the advertisement.

But as she stood there seemed no need for hurry in this peaceful scene. She passed to the rear flower-framed door and raised a wooden knocker. It was a uniformed maid who led her into the comfortable room of the resigning housekeeper. That person, after one keen glance, sighed relievedly.

"At last," she said, "I see my way clear to go. You have the appearance of capability. Intelligent help is almost impossible to find these days, especially in this lonely spot. It's all right for the great folks who go and come from the city. For servants the situation is not inviting. Your difficulty will be in keeping cooks and finding maids. However, that's up to you. Mr. O'Neil is away from home so much on his singing tours that you will probably be able to manage—at least while he's here."

Nance put out an interrupting hand. "This is Mr. O'Neil's home?" she asked unbelievably. "Not Larry O'Neil, the Irish tenor?"

The housekeeper nodded.

"Didn't you know?" she asked. "Everybody hereabouts has heard of his early Irish home and how when he made his money he tried to imitate the thatched cottage as well as could be done in grand style. His old mother lived with him here till she died. Mr. O'Neil is a fine man and a home-loving one too, though none of those idling women have tempted him to give up his bachelorhood. He's home now, as it happens, and has been troubled about my going. He relies upon me a great deal. But my people need me now. Will you let me see your reference, Mrs.—"

"Miss," corrected Nance. "I'm Miss Nance Bawa. I have no reference as housekeeper, only as to character. I hoped if you'd be willing to try me for a few days—"

"I'm afraid I'll be forced to," the housekeeper said dubiously, "if I wish to get away."

She was efficient in her new work; the departing housekeeper with satisfaction discovered this fact before the second day of trial was over. The singer's especial sanctum took on an inexplicable air of hominess upon that second evening. His cigar stand was just where it should be, and an Irish ballad lay upon his piano. Why he sat and played it through, the lamp-light glinting his silvering hair—"When I dream of old Ireland," he sang, "I'm dreaming of you."

A woman stood behind him when he turned, a little woman in a sprigged lavender dress. She was holding toward him respectfully a tray with a cup of coffee on it. But Larry O'Neil jumped unbelievably to his feet.

"Nance," he cried, "Nance, dear—after all these years!" And when later the great singer and the happy woman sat hand clasped in hand the woman smiled with the old shy smile he remembered so well.

"And so, Larry," she said, "I decided not to be a drag upon you when you were finding your wonderful voice and making it perfect."

"You ran away," the man reproached her, "and none could tell where you'd gone."

"I was never far away from you, dear," Nance said. "Often as you sang I listened. It was joy to learn that, even in the possession of your beautiful home you still remembered the old—"

"When I dreamed of old Ireland," he sang softly, "I was dreaming—of you."

Red Tape Citadel

"Citadelization office" is a description used by the great novelist, Charles Dickens, in his book, "Little Dorrit," to ridicule official delays and indirectness. It is described as the chief of "public departments in the art of perceiving how not to do it." The name has come into popular use as a synonym for governmental routine, "red tape," procrastination and delay in transacting public business.

In the Days of Beaver Hats.

In the olden days in the United States soon after the Revolutionary war, a good beaver hat became a kind of family heirloom, and was handed down from father to son. For some strange reason it was considered to be rather frivolous and extravagant to be seen wearing a new beaver hat, and it was the custom when a man bought one to leave it out in stormy weather before wearing it, to "take the newness off."

New Plant Fertilizer.

Experiments in England with a new bacterized peat fertilizer have resulted in remarkable increases in plant growth and productivity, while plants believed to be dying have been restored to better than normal conditions.

Faer in the Child.

"There is a world of truth in Prof. Angelo Mosso's emphatic declaration: 'Every ugly thing told to the child, every shock, every fright given him, will remain like minute splinters in the flesh, to torture him all his life long.'"

Garden of Eden in Mexico?

A prehistoric race that lived in Mexico centuries before Cortez ever arrived there to crush the power of the Aztec kingdom, was a civilized people who were flooded out of existence by a deluge that swept the valley of Mexico, as relics picked up near the capital city prove, and some writers assert that Mexico was the site of the beginning of man and that it was in this valley that Noah set forth for his 40-day tour of the flooded world.

In answer to the question: "What are the five great races of mankind?" a Chinese student replied: "The 100 yards, the hurdles, the quarter-mile, the mile and the three mile."

Times Have Changed.

It is said that the post office in Philadelphia will lose $14,000 a day as the result of going from the three-cent back to the two-cent rate for letters.

That happens to be exactly the sum which Benjamin Franklin was able to turn over to Great Britain in annual revenues from the post offices in the colonies in 1774, after he had put in four years of hard work in creating a postal system.

To Take Baby's Picture.

Anyone who has tried it knows it is a difficult task to take an indoor picture of an active child. By placing the subject near a sunny window, but not in the direct sunlight, and with a sheet fixed at one side, high enough so that it reaches above the subject's head, good results may be obtained. If the child sits on the floor, the sheet will be high enough thrown over two chairs.

A little girl had a twin brother and sister. Now, she was used to the cat sitting kittens and only one of the kitten family being kept. THE ARMY DENTIST

By EMMA P. WILLIAMS.

The massive touring car shot through the village and was lost in the cloud of dust that rose in its wake. Virginia's eyes filled with longing as they followed the car, then dropped wistfully to the letter in her hand.

"If only I could follow the trail of the automobile," she murmured longingly. "Why couldn't I, anyway?" came definitely as she lifted the letter and reread the offer which opened to her the chance she sought so eagerly, the opportunity to return cityward, to touch, to be one of the million active human beings instead of existing in a half-dead village, stagnant, disinterested.

She groaned aloud. Of what use were her years at college, her struggle to graduate at the head of her class, if all must end this way?

A slight sound aroused her attention—a look falling from the limply closed fingers of her mother, who had fallen asleep in the rocking chair. The soft face on her bosom rose and fell gently, evenly; and one large tear strayed slowly down her cheek. "What was she dreaming of, to cause the tear?" Virginia wondered. In a twinkling, the tempting letter was torn into fragments and tossed into the fireplace. Virginia's decision was made.

Mrs. Marsh was delighted when she learned of Virginia's decision. Her merry brown eyes gleamed mischievously, and when, on a later day, she told her daughter of the expected arrival of Dr. Ernest Harlow, a family friend, her eyes twinkled again.

Virginia was making dainty biscuits when the guest arrived. He sat on the cool porch with mother, and under the spell of her broad sympathy, he told of his experiences. "Three years of service in the hospitals abroad. Hard, nerve-racking work! Must recuperate before starting in with dental practice on this side of the great ocean. Need of dentists in the army? I guess yes! Terrible demand; no rest, day after day." So he conversed, and later, "I'm tired of everything. That's the way I feel. Just exhausted. Don't want to see the street cars, the theaters, anything belonging to civilization. Don't even want to see a girl again!"

Virginia picked up her ears and listened more intently.

"Girls are killingly silly about a uniform. Of course they mean well, but when a man is worn to a frazzle, he can't be bothered with a giddy, simpering flirt."

Virginia rang the bell for dinner. When Mrs. Marsh led the doctor to the attractive dining room no Virginia was in sight. A telephone call apprised Mrs. Marsh of the fact that her daughter was luncheon with a neighbor. Mrs. Marsh smiled knowingly, urging her guest to eat. He started in nonchalantly, but the luscious vegetable salad, the hot biscuits and tender sliced chicken tasted as no nectar tasted to the gods. A foaming glass of ice cold milk was soon emptied. Then the raspberry short cake, and the gooseberry jam! "You are a wonderful cook," declared the tired doctor.

"Give all the praise to Virginia," Mrs. Marsh returned.

"I haven't met your daughter yet. Where is she?" Doctor Harlow looked around eagerly.

"She doesn't care for men," smiled Mrs. Marsh. "They are such silly flirtations creatures—as a rule. But you will meet her sometime, I suppose."

Life from that day became very interesting to Virginia Marsh. Community work and city environment were forgotten in the new game of dodging the attractive young man who couldn't be bothered with girls, but who very plainly showed his desire to become better acquainted with the clever housekeeper, whose picture found its way to his bureau. He met her, of course, and tried to interest her in his European adventures, but there was an awkwardness in her manner which irritated and stung him into a determination to win her attention.

One evening he induced her to paddle across the lake with him. Far out from the shore he trailed his paddle carelessly behind him and leaned towards the girl, grimly determined to have his say uninterrupted. "Virginia, I can't get you off my mind at all. I'm mad about you, so wildly in love that you've got to give me one word of encouragement or I'll—I'll—well, I don't want to think what I might do. Couldn't you care enough for me to be my wife?"

Virginia's eyes dropped to hide from him the light of love that rose triumphantly thrilling. "I gave up a career to stay with my mother. For the same reason I must renounce all thought of marrying. I cannot leave her."

"Couldn't we take the little mother with us, Virginia?"

"She would die of homesickness, for she has lived here all her life. No, she would refuse to go, I am sure."

The doctor's brow grew wrinkled. He gritted his teeth and looked more determined than ever, more ready for the battle.

Virginia spoke so softly that Doctor Harlow had to shift out of his seat in the canoe to kneel beside the retreating girl. "Say it again Virginia," he ordered.

"There isn't a dentist in town," repeated Virginia, smiling into his eyes. (Copyright, 1919, McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Want to Feel Just Right?

Take an NR Tonight

JUST TRY IT AND SEE how much better you feel in the morning. That "tired," headache, tired, don't-know-what's-the-matter feeling will be gone—you'll feel fine.

TROUBLE IS, your system is clogged with a lot of impurities that your overworked digestive and eliminative organs can't get rid of. Pills, oil, salts, calomel and ordinary laxatives, cathartics and purges only force the bowels and prod the liver.

Nature's Remedy (NR Tablets) acts on the stomach, liver, bowels and even kidneys, not forcing, but toning and strengthening these organs. The result is prompt relief and real, lasting benefit. Make the test. Nature's Remedy will act promptly, thoroughly, yet so mildly, so gently, that you will think nature herself has come to the rescue and is doing the work.

And oh, what relief! You'll be surprised to find how much better you feel—brighter, better every way. If habitually or stubbornly constipated, take one NR Tablet each night for a week. Then you'll not have to take medicine every day. Just one occasional NR Tablet after that will be sufficient to keep your system in good condition—keep you feeling your best.

Farm For Sale

On account of the death of Mr. J. C. Coldwell we wish to sell privately the Pierce Farm.

This farm is situated on the Stuarts pike 3 miles from Danville and contains 233 acres of land, a comfortable two story frame residence in good repair, also three good tenant houses. This place is watered by pond, well and three never failing springs, and is fenced with wire fencing, all of which is in good condition.

This farm is in high state of cultivation being regarded as one of the best producing tracts of land in Boyle County.

Farm contains 60 acres of wheat, 30 acres of Rye, and balance is in blue grass, clover and timothy. This place has always raised the best quality of tobacco and hemp, the tobacco having on one occasion topped the market at Lexington and a hemp crop of 1800 pounds to the acre having been grown on this land. Barn room for six acres of tobacco.

Will sell to give possession on January 1st, 1920, with customary terms of sale.

SECURE WINTER FUEL FROM FARM WOODLOT

Town Markets Will Keep Active for Several Months.

Excellent Opportunity Afforded to Improve Woodland By Removing Poorer, Less Valuable Trees—Let Good Ones Grow.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture)

Many farmers now have their home supplies of wood for winter fuel, but the town markets will keep active for several months, and thousands of cords of wood will still be cut for local use on the farm.

In cutting cordwood, an excellent opportunity is afforded to improve the woodland by removing the poorer, less valuable trees, leaving the better ones to grow. Many farmers who have never before given this subject a thought are taking a real interest, because they see how quickly nature responds in better growth when given a little guidance and aid.

The kinds of material to be removed for firewood include trees unsuitable for lumber, crooked trees crowding out straight ones, badly diseased and decaying trees, small trees overtopped and stunted by larger and better ones, dead trees that are mostly sound, tree tops left from former cuttings, and trees of the less valuable kinds, where others of greater value are present which need the room and will prove faster money-making trees. Handling farm woodlands rightly is an indispensable part of profitable farm management.

If lists of manufacturers or other information are desired regarding portable wood-sawing outfits, and wood-splitting and tree-felling machinery, the forest service of the department of agriculture will be glad to furnish such material upon request.

ROOFED SILO IS PREFERRED

Helps Prevent Freezing of Silage, Keeps Out Snow and Protects Walls of Silo.

(By R. L. PATTY, South Dakota Experiment Station.)

The old notion that it is unnecessary to roof the silo was wrong. Experience shows that a silo roof helps to prevent the freezing of the silage, keeps out snow, protects the silo walls when empty, and thereby adds to its life service.

The roof is necessary on a stave silo to give it rigidity in addition to protection. If the roof is put on after the silo is filled, no inside scaffolding is necessary.

Common types of silo roofs are shingled, concrete, light hollow brick, prepared roofing on tight sheathing and metal. The roof should match the silo. If one builds a fire and wind-proof silo, he should by all means put on a fire and wind-proof roof. The roof should be made to last as long as the silo. A short-lived roof should not be put on a long-lived silo.

PORK REQUIRED FOR WINTER

Farmers Who Raise Hogs, Kill and Cure Their Own Meat Save Cost of Marketing.

Porkers ought to be grazing in fields and pastures getting food to transform into pork for your winter meat supply. If farmers do not raise enough hogs for their own meat who will?

Some one must supply farm homes with pork, bacon, lard and sausage. Those who buy from the store are likely to find the cost of handling excessive. But those who raise the hogs, kill and cure their own meat will save the cost of marketing.

Particular is right! Not only do we use the four choicest varieties of Turkish tobacco—Xanthi, Cavalla, Smyrna and Sam-soun—but to these we add the rich, sun-ripened leaves of specially choice Domestic tobacco.

Fine as these tobaccos are, it's the exclusive process by which they are blended that gives to Chesterfields that satisfying body, that mellow richness which makes a smoke mean something.

Chesterfields certainly do satisfy as no other cigarette has satisfied you before—and to top it off, they are packed in a glass-line paper package that preserves for you all of that delicious flavor.

POSSIBLE TO DOUBLE PRODUCTION OF COWS

Success of Dairymen Due Greatly to Quality of Animals.

Farmer Should Eliminate Low Producers From Herd and Feed Remainder According to Production—Adds to Profits.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Dairymen in the United States are divided into three classes—those who ultimately fail and abandon the business; those who eke out a limited existence, and those who succeed. Invariably, the success of the progressive dairyman is principally due to the quality of his cows. He clings to freedom from financial worry on the backs of his producers.

It is impossible for the average dairy cow of the United States even to approach the remarkable production record of Duchess Skylark Ormsby, who produced in a year 1,205.09 pounds of butterfat, equivalent to three-fourths of a ton of butter. But it is possible for dairymen, the country over, to double the present production of their herds. To increase the production of the average dairy cow from 160 to 320 pounds of butterfat a year would not be difficult, according to dairy experts, and would increase net profits out of proportion to production costs.

This should be the aim of every progressive dairy farmer. He should eliminate the low producers from his herd and feed the remainder according to known production. He should improve the foundation stock with the idea of making the daughters yield as much more milk than their dams as possible. This practice in a few generations would greatly increase production, decrease the cost of feed and add much to the profit and pleasures of dairy farming.

PLAN FOR BUILDING UP SOIL

Acid Phosphate, Limestone, Tills and Manure Form Basis for Increasing Fertility.

The Ohio experiment station has worked out during a series of years a plan for soil building which farmers in any state might study. As a basis of comparison, it is shown that certain fertility standards may be adopted. On a 160-acre farm fertility standards as compared with results secured in experimental work at the Ohio station show that 16 tons of acid phosphate per year, a carload of limestone, a mile of tile and the production of 400 loads of manure annually would form a profitable basis for increasing soil fertility.

This would also call for the growing of about 40 acres of clover, as the use of legumes in connection with manure, phosphorus and limestone on drained land, produces the best results. Such a plan of fertility reconstruction is regarded as necessary because the greater part of the soil in Ohio has been farmed for at least fifty years and these fertility elements must be supplied in reasonable quantities now, or later in very much larger amounts, at an increased cost.

BOYS BOOST PUREBRED PIGS

Increase in Number of Breeders in Indiana County Credited Largely to Club Influence.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The increase in the number of breeders of purebred animals in Clay county, Ind., is largely credited to the influence of the local pig club. Two years ago there were less than ten breeders of purebred hogs in the county, but at present registered hogs can be found on more than 100 farms. The boy and girl members of the club are the pioneers in the keeping of purebred hogs. Recently ten big-type Poland China girls, of excellent quality and valued at $50 each, were issued to the members of the club by the local county agent.

DON'T STIMULATE GROWTH

Admonition Frequently Heard From Authorities Is Not to Feed Pigs Too Much Corn.

Do not feed pigs too much corn while they are young. This is an admonition we frequently hear from authorities on pig raising. Here is the reason why: Corn is a fast-producing feed and does not stimulate growth. What is needed is a protein feed; that is, one which ranks high in protein. Protein makes muscle and stimulates growth. Tankage will do very well, but often it is impossible to secure it.

PREVENT PNEUMONIA

Neglect of a simple cold is often the direct cause of pneumonia. Children do not like to take nauseating medicine but do like the soothing effect of the external remedy.

Brame's Vapomenth Salve is applied by rubbing the salve into the chest and under the arms. The result is almost instant relief from cough and cold. It is not unusual for children to recover from pneumonia after a few days of treatment with Brame's Vapomenth Salve. Price 5c and $1.00 each. Free sample upon request to BRAME DRUG COMPANY, N. W. Williams, N. C.

The Roman Fare.
The Roman soldiers, who built such wonderful roads and carried a weight of armor and baggage, lived on coarse brown bread and sour wine. They were temperate in diet and regular and constant in exercise. The Spanish peasant works every day and dances half the night, yet eats only black bread, onion and water lemon.

Zeus and the Moors.
Zeus, the Greek name taken from that of a tribe in Algeria and this kind of pig industry was first employed in that country in 1831, the members being Algerians and dressing in semi-Moorish uniforms. Other countries, including the United States, have adopted the Zeus system since. In the Civil war, and the Italian assault upon Rome in 1870, they were conspicuous, in the latter case defending the papal supremacy.

Solitude.
What period do you think I recall most frequently and most willingly? Not the pleasures of youth; they are too rare, too much mixed with bitterness and now too distant. I recall the period of my seclusion, of my solitary walks, of the long but delicious days that I have spent entirely by myself, with my dog, my old cat, with the fields, the birds of the air, with all nature and her incommensurable Author.—Rousseau.

Bees Distinguish Colors.
Scientists have shown that bees distinguish different colors, but different colors acquire significance for them when the insects have learned that certain colors are associated with certain nutritive advantages. The bees are not "reflex-machines"—they are not compelled by any organic chromatotropism to prefer certain colors to others. They accumulate experience and remember that certain colors are associated with certain nutritive benefits.

Why Suffer?

Mrs. J. A. Cox, of Anderson, W. Va., writes: "My daughter... suffered terribly. She could not turn in bed... the doctors gave her up, and we brought her home to die. She had suffered so much at... time. Having heard of Cardui, we got it for her."

CARDUI

The Woman's Tonic

"In a few days she began to improve," Mrs. Cox continues, "and had no trouble at all. Cardui cured her, and we sing its praises everywhere. We receive many thousands of similar letters every year, telling of the good Cardui has done for women who suffer from complaints so common to their sex. It should do you good, too. E-77 Cardui."

Meaning of the Word "Stop"
The word "stop" is a word we frequently use in the daily life. It is believed to be a word of the ancients who chanted the words in the temple. Matthew, the apostle and evangelist, wrote a book about the subject, in which, after rejecting a number of theories, he came to the conclusion that it is equivalent to the modern "da capo," and is a direction that the air or song is to be repeated from the commencement to the part where the word is placed.

Importance of Good Health.
Good health is a word to be sure does not sum up the whole secret of personality. But it is a most important element, as you will presently appreciate when you read the rules of living that result from the study of the word "stop." It is a word that would help to feel more comfortable. You will attack business with more masterfully. You will find it far easier to sway others with your personal influence.—H. Aldrich, in Bruce, in Chicago News.

EXTREME CARE IS MOST ESSENTIAL FOR PRESERVATION OF POULTRY IN TRANSIT

Be Sure to Use Only Suitably Equipped Cars for Shipping Dressed Poultry.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)
Scrupulous care in pre-cooling a refrigerator car for shipping dressed poultry, always a matter of importance, is doubly so now, in the opinion of food-research experts. The greater necessity for care comes, in the first place, of the fact that there is a nationwide ice shortage. The second important element is that, following the stress of war-time transportation, the refrigerator equipment of the country is in a run-down condition. The car should be carefully examined, the experts say, to see that it admits not even a pin point of light. Then it should be tested and, if it falls short of standard, there should be no hesitation about rejecting it and calling on the railroad agent for a car that will meet the requirements. Extreme care, the experts believe, is essential just now for the preservation of poultry in transit, and the chief of the department's food research laboratory has just issued the following definite information as to how satisfactory results are to be attained:

Select Car Day Before Loading.
When the refrigerator car is set for icing, enter it and with doors and hatches tightly closed look carefully for any crack or point of daylight. The car should be absolutely black with not a pin point of light anywhere. If there are distinct cracks around the doors or hatches, the car will not maintain sufficiently low temperature and should not be used for the handling of dressed poultry or any other commodity requiring ice and salt refrigeration. Be sure also that the drain pipes are open and in good working order.

The selected car should be set for icing at least 24 hours before it is to be loaded. Its hatches should then be filled three-quarters full with finely broken ice; that is, no place should be larger than a man's fist. When the hatches are three-quarters full, tamp the ice down well so that all cracks and crannies are filled. Then add one-quarter of the calculated amount of salt on the 12 per cent basis. For instance, if the hatcher holds 5,000 pounds of ice, when three-quarters full it will contain 3,750 pounds. On top of this amount of ice scatter 150 pounds of coarse gray rock salt. Mix this salt very lightly with the top ice and directly on top of it place more crushed ice until the hatcher is full. Then add the remainder of the calculated amount of salt, which, in this case, would be 450 pounds. Mix it very lightly with the fine ice so that the salt does not penetrate into the mass of ice more than 4 or 5 inches; level the surface and quickly close the hatches.

Right Temperature Is 34 Degrees.
With both hatches so closed and salted, the car should stand for 24 hours. Then, in order to make sure that the temperature is right for loading, a man provided with a thermometer should enter as quickly as possible by opening one side of one door, which should be tightly closed immediately. The man should stand midway between the doors holding the thermometer about 4 feet from the floor until the mercury has responded to the car temperature, which ordinarily is accomplished in from three to five minutes depending on the quality of the thermometer. The temperature of the car at this point should not be above 34 degrees F. If it is more than 38 degrees at this point, it is dangerous to load the car for a haul requiring intensive refrigeration. Unless the shipper is willing to take chances on the condition in which his load will arrive at the market, he should communicate with the railroad agent and request a car which is able to refrigerate the dressed poultry properly.

All refrigerator cars should be provided with a floor rack 4 inches in the clear, built of lengthwise stringers made from 2 by 4 lumber and crosswise slats made from 1 by 3 lumber, with 1 1/2 inch space between. These crosswise slats are nailed to the lengthwise stringers. They do not interfere with trucking the load into the car. They should extend across the doorway, since it is this part of the car which is hardest to refrigerate and where air circulation is most needed. All railroad owned refrigerators are rapidly as possible are being equipped with racks which are fastened to the side walls so that they can be turned back for cleaning.

gether with the damage caused by the borer.

The commissioners of agriculture returned to their states convinced of the reality of the peril and of the necessity of uniting all efforts to protect the farmers of the country from a destructive insect that may quickly spread over very large areas unless most energetic control work is done on a large scale.

URGE UNITED FIGHT ON EUROPEAN BORER

Insect Is Serious Menace to American Agriculture.

Has Become Well Established in Both Massachusetts and New York—Most Energetic Measures Favored for Eradication.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The European corn borer undoubtedly is a serious menace to American agriculture. The United States department of agriculture has for some time called attention to the extreme danger from this pest, which has become well established in both Massachusetts and New York. Now comes this reinforcement of that judgment:

"We, the National Association of Commissioners of Agriculture, with official entomologists from many states and representatives of the United States department of agriculture, together with representatives of the Canadian government, present as experts in conference upon the situation, express ourselves, after examining the infested area, as thoroughly convinced that this pest is one of the most dangerous insects which has become established in America, and we hereby place ourselves on record in favor of most energetic efforts on the part of federal and state agencies to control and, if possible, to exterminate this insect, including in the program vigorous quarantines to prevent its distribution."

That is a part of the resolutions adopted by the European Corn-borer conference, begun at Albany, N. Y., on August 28 and concluded at Boston, Mass., on August 29. The state commissioners of agriculture, state entomologists and others went over the corn fields around Schenectady, N. Y., and Boston, Mass., and saw the methods of destruction practiced by the United States department of agriculture and the state agencies, to-

TREES GROW BEST ON SLOPES

Roughest Areas on Farm Present Most Favorable Localities for Successful Growth.

(By W. J. MORTILLAR, Colorado Agricultural College, Fort Collins, Colo.)

Trees, especially cone bearing trees, seem to prefer newly eroded soil. Steep slopes are exposed to comparatively rapid erosion and here trees do the best. Level ground indicates old soil, old in the sense that it was derived from rock, as a rule, longer ago than soil found on steep slopes. Old soil probably contains an excess of soluble salts, too much for best tree growth.

In the mountains one sees the steep slopes clothed with trees, while the occasional flat spot is likely to be bare of trees. The roughest areas on the farm present the most favorable localities for successful tree growing.

KEEP VEGETABLES IN WINTER

Temperature Slightly Above Freezing Point Is Preferred for Beets, Turnips and Carrots.

(By A. F. YEAGER, North Dakota Agricultural College.)

Turnips, beets, and carrots will keep best at a temperature slightly above freezing. Cabbage will stand considerable freezing, and cauliflower and parsnips may be left in the soil over winter if desired. Squashes and pumpkins will keep best in a warm dry place. A warm attic where it does not freeze is good. Potatoes require a cool place not too dry. Cabbage and nearly all root crops may be stored in the ground. They must be put deep enough to be below the frost line and should be surrounded with straw to keep them from direct contact with the soil.

IMAGINATION

By ALICE KNIGHT.

Ned Barnes and his classmates were holding an indignation meeting at which Ned seemed to have by far the greatest grievance. They had just left their English classroom where the professor had startled them by announcing the fact that they must write a short story for the next day. "He has no right to do it," said Ned. "This is a course in critical writing and not narration."

"You're right, old chap," said his friend Dick, "and it sure is harder to write a love story than to tell of a criticism, but I suppose we'll have to do it."

"Thank goodness, he didn't specify it had to be a love story."

"No, but that's about the easiest, unless you write a thrilling adventure story."

"Well, it's all right to write about adventures if you ever had any, but I'm not going to write a lot of riddled lies. I couldn't do it anyway, I tell you. Everybody always said I had no more imagination than a cat."

The next morning in the English class, instead of seeing a frowning and gloomy Ned Barnes, his friends saw a beaming countenance, which still remained beaming when the professor said "We will begin by reading Barnes' story. And to an eagerly interested audience he read the following:

"The train from New Hampshire has just drawn into Boston as it has a thousand times before. But today it is all different for there is one little passenger who has never seen Boston, or indeed any other city. Her expression of eager curiosity and childish delight attracts us at once. To look at her sweet and innocent face, one would never suspect that she was deceiving her poor old aunt in the belief that she was spending the day with a friend in the next town in order that she might slip away to the magic city of Boston for a few hours. Just a few short hours, that was the only cloud on her horizon; just a few short hours, but she dare not stay longer. But perhaps that would be long enough, and she clutched her little hand still more closely over something that she had held in the palm of her hand ever since she left home. We would have to see what it is, but it is evidently very precious, for she is not willing to let go for a minute. We will follow her through the station and listen to her third request for information. The mystery of the elevated and subway seeming to be impenetrable, she decides to walk, and 15 minutes later she is standing before a millinery window, wide-eyed and breathless. Surely she must be dreaming. Such wonderful creations never existed outside of Fairyland. One in particular took her fancy. It was large and droopy and fluffy, with the dearest little forget-me-nots. Did I tell you her eyes were as blue as the heavens above and her cheeks as pink as the roses in an old New England garden. Surely it would be becoming."

With a little flutter of her heart and a tighter clasp of her little hand on her imprisoned secret, she entered the shop.

If Boston was new to her, certainly she was new to Boston. Her fresh beauty and simplicity aroused the faded interests of even the shop girls and they vied with each other in waiting on her. First she tried on the forget-me-not hat in the window. It was all that her heart craved for, but true to the eternal feminine, she must try on every other hat she saw—just to make sure. Finally, after glancing over all the wonders she decided on her first choice. When it was presented to her in a box so big she could scarcely carry it, she thanked the clerk for her kindness and started to go away.

"Wait a minute, my dear. You have not paid for it yet."

"Paid for it? Oh, I thought —" A look of embarrassment and then a deep blush spread over her face. "Oh, I must be in the wrong store."

Slowly, almost regretfully, she opened her hand and gave the clerk the crumpled paper she had carried for hours in her hand. "Will you tell me where that store is, please?"

The clerk, at first amused, and just as quickly ashamed of her amusement, read their own last Sunday's advertisement.

HATS GIVEN AWAY.

How daintily beautiful. Charmingly simple. Daringly dashing. Delightfully demure. All kinds to suit all tastes. In a daze the girl listened to the clerk's gentle and sympathetic explanation of the wicked city's exaggerations, but it is doubtful if she understood anything except that she had lost her hat. Completely disheartened, she left the shop. Two big tears gathered in her eyes and blurred everything. She did not even see the approaching —

Just as the story is reaching the interesting part, the professor is called away for a few minutes. A storm of exclamations greet Ned, such as "Oh, no. You wouldn't write a love story."

"Well, my description didn't do her justice, and neither does this." And he drew a snapshot shyly from his pocket, "but you'll all have a chance to judge for yourself, for if old Aunt Mithalade or Henshuh, or whatever her name is, will give her consent, she will be at our dance next week." FARM STOCK

STOCK MAINTENANCE RATION

Silage, Corn Stover, Straw and Unmarketable Hay Should Be Given Cattle to Be Crazed.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The greatest obstacle in developing the grazing industry in many eastern and central sections is the cost of wintering the stock. It is impossible to buy young cattle or sheep in the spring in sufficient quantities and at a price to yield a satisfactory profit from the summer grazing.

One of two plans must be followed. A breeding herd may be kept to produce the stock, as is practiced on the ranges of the West, or young stock may be purchased in the fall—the plan followed by the grazers in the bluegrass region of the Virginias and Kentucky. Either method necessitates the wintering of animals.

Right here should be held down a hard-and-fast rule. Cattle which are to be grazed the following summer should be carried through the winter on a strictly maintenance ration. Silage, corn stover, straw, and unmarketable hay should form its basis. The silage is almost indispensable for economical feeding of such stock. No grain should be fed if it can be avoided. It has been the experience of grazers in the bluegrass region that steers which have lost 50 pounds in weight during the winter finish the grazing period weighing the same as those which made a gain of that amount.

KEEP LARGER SHEEP FLOCKS

High Prices of Wool and Mutton Induce Western Growers to Increase Number of Animals.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

As a result of high prices of wool and mutton and the value of sheep as wood and waste utilizers, western irrigation farmers are keeping more and larger flocks. As a rule these flocks are of good breeding, many consisting of purebred animals, their owners making a specialty of selling purebred ram lambs to range-country stockmen, who do not reserve breeding stock from year to year. Several projects are now operating wool pools, the main function of which is to concentrate the wool in large quantities and develop keener competition among buyers. Combination also favors grading and better classifying of wool and allows a small producer to realize greater profits from his sheep-farming operations.

CALCULATIONS OF HOG FEEDS

Light Thrown on Proper Combinations for Different Purposes—Big Aid to Grower.

The calculation of rations with the aid of feeding standards and tables will prove both interesting and profitable, for it will throw much light on the proper combinations of food for different purposes. At the same time it promotes a spirit of inquiry and close observation on the part of the farmer, which is one of the first requisites of a successful feeder.

LIVE STOCK NOTES

Lambs feeding in corn should never be short on roughage.

Salt placed where the sheep may have it when they want it is essential.

For wintering cows or stock steers, stover allage seems to be of decided value.

Stock hogs can be kept thrifty largely on pastures; however, they will grow slowly without some grain.

When it is necessary to have the mare do harvest work the colt should be weaned, even if he is not more than three months old.

CAMELS' expert blend of choice Turkish and choice Domestic tobaccos answers every cigarette desire you ever had! Camels give such universal delight, such unusual enjoyment and satisfaction you'll call them a cigarette revelation!

If you'd like a cigarette that does not leave any unpleasant cigarette aftertaste or unpleasant cigarette odor, smoke Camels! If you hunger for a rich, mellow-mild cigarette that has all that desirable cigarette "body"—well, you get some Camels as quickly as you can!

Camels' expert blend makes all this delightful quality possible. Your personal test will prove that Camel Cigarettes are the only cigarettes you ever smoked that just seem made to meet your taste! You will prefer them to either kind of tobacco smoked straight!

Compare Camels for quality and satisfaction with any cigarette in the world at any price!

Camels are sold everywhere in scientifically sealed packages of 20 cigarettes; or ten packages (200 cigarettes) in a glassine-paper-covered carton. We strongly recommend this carton for the home or office supply, or when you travel.

"ONLY ONE THING BREAKS MY COLD!"

"That's Dr. King's New Discovery for fifty years a cold-breaker"

NOTHING but sustained quality and unflinching effectiveness can arouse such enthusiasm. Nothing but sure relief from stubborn colds and coughing new ones, grippe, throat-irritating coughs, and croup could have made Dr. King's New Discovery the nationally popular and standard remedy it is today.

Fifty years old and always reliable. Good for the whole family. A bottle in the medicine cabinet means a short-lived cold or cough, 60c. and $1.20. All druggists. Give it a trial.

Regular Bowels Is Health

Bowels that move spasmodically—free one day and stubborn the next—should be healthfully regulated by Dr. King's New Life Pills. In this way you keep the impurities of waste matter from circulating through the system by cleansing the bowels thoroughly and promoting the proper flow of bile.

Mild, comfortable, yet always reliable. Dr. King's New Life Pills work with precision without the constipation results of violent purgatives. 25c. as usual at all druggists.

DANVILLE, KENTUCKY.

COMMISSIONER'S SALE OF LAND.

GARRARD CIRCUIT COURT. John Naret, et al. Plaintiffs. VS.

Nannie F. Scott, Defendant. Pursuant to a judgment rendered at the November Term, 1919, the undersigned Commissioner will sell at public auction before the Court House Door in Lancaster, Ky., on MONDAY, DECEMBER 22nd, 1919, at 11 o'clock, A. M., or thereabouts, the real estate mentioned in the pleadings and described as follows: In Garrard County, Kentucky, near Lowell, and contains about 50 acres, and is a portion of the same land conveyed to John Naret, deceased, by John Henderson, by deed recorded in Deed Book P. 135, and is bounded as follows: On the North by the land of Robert Price, on the East by the land of Bell Henderson, on the South by the land of Geline Henderson, and on the West by the County Road. The purpose of the sale is to divide the proceeds thereof among the joint owners of same.

TERMS. The sale will be made on a credit of six and twelve months and the purchaser will be required to execute bonds with approved security for the purchase price, due in six and twelve months respectively, and bearing six per cent interest from date until paid having the force and effect of a judgment upon which execution may issue, payable to W. H. Brown, Master Commissioner of the Garrard Circuit Court, and a lien will be reserved upon the property sold until the purchase money is paid.

HOMES IN MISSISSIPPI.

North East Mississippi is a delightful climate with mild short winters and is fast becoming famous for production of SHEEP, HOGS, CATTLE and all kinds of live stock because of the abundance of grass and its long period of growth. The soil is deep, rich and unsurpassed for CORN, COTTON, ALFALFA, CLOVER or anything its owner wishes to produce. Large dairying interests have sprung up in the past five years. To see this country means to own a home there, in most every case. Below are a few bargains on which I have options for a short time. Lands are going so fast and prices moving up, the sooner you look, the more you save in the purchase price.

TRACT NO. 1—1060 ACRES—1 1/2 miles from Aberdeen, 6 miles from Amery. Pike to corner of land, good 7 room Hungarian, 3 large barns, large Silo, several tenant houses and small barns. Two flowing wells, 25 miles wire fence, 600 acres bottom land, some fine timber, 600 acres in cultivation at $50.00. You will have to see this to know the value of it. One-third cash. Long time on remainder.

TRACT NO. 2—720 ACRES—Ten mile pike, 2 mile dirt road from West Point, nearly all in cultivation, 150 acres alfalfa, good house, 2 good barns. Several tenant houses. The very best lime land. Easy terms for $50.00.

TRACT NO. 3—535 ACRES—Two miles of Aberdeen, on Burlington highway, 35 acres of oak land. Balance bottom land. One-half dark loam, one-half Black Alfalfa land, the best proposition anywhere for Dairy and Stock farm within two miles of a good creamery. Some improvements, $50.00.

TRACT NO. 4—638 ACRES—Ten miles from West Point with a village on the place, pike to corner of the farm, 10 room Brick house, water and lights, grist mill, store house, ware house and cribs, large and small barns and tenant houses. Have seen nine thousand bushels corn in the cribs on this farm. School and churches near. White neighbors. This bargain for $85. One-third cash, long time on balance.

TRACT NO. 5—930 ACRES—At Gibson Station, 8 miles from Aberdeen, divided by pike, 530 acres on one side 400 acres on the other side. Can be sold all together or divide. The 400 acres has store house and small house, 200 acres of alfalfa, 500 acres has good house, 2 barns and other buildings, 30 tenant houses, all good alfalfa land. This is best location and best land anywhere at $125.00. One-third cash. Easy terms.

TRACT NO. 6—160 ACRES—For the smaller farmer, 7 miles from Aberdeen, 1 mile of Prairie Station, good school, three-fourths mile of pike, good four room house, small barn, 50 acres alfalfa, nearly all ALFALFA LAND, COTTON OR CORN at $75. Can't buy land any where around it at $125.00. Easy terms.

TRACT NO. 7—160 ACRES—Eight miles from Aberdeen, 2 miles from pike, 30 acres in alfalfa that yielded $135.00 per acre this year. Good 4 room house, good barn and tenant house and other out-buildings. This is a good home for some one at $30.00. TERMS.

TRACT NO. 8—650 ACRES—Two miles from Station, 1 mile of pike, 150 acres post oak land, balance good black alfalfa land, 50 acres in alfalfa. Five room house, good barn and tenant house. A sure enough bargain at $60.00. One-third cash, balance to suit purchaser.

TRACT NO. 9—A 60 ACRE FARM—2 1/2 miles from a good county seat town, on a good pike, good house, barn and out-buildings, all good lime land, will grow ALFALFA, COTTON, CORN, CLOVER or any kind of grasses. A fine home for a man with small capital, at $75.00. Terms easy.

TRACT NO. 10—A 50 ACRE FARM—All good lime land, good 4 room house, barn and out buildings. An excellent home for $75. Easy terms.

Don't be misled. This is not the Delta. No malaria, no mosquitos, no swamp, but a fine prairie of black rich soil that is coming to its own.

With Three-Point Cantilever Springs New Overland 4 Seems to "Sail Over The Roads"

THE new Three-Point Cantilever Springs of Overland 4, by their special construction and design, protect car and passengers from ordinary road jolts. Bumping, twisting, swaying and vibrating are wonderfully lessened. The blows of the road seldom reach you. There is less tendency to bodily fatigue after long rides.

The springs of Overland 4 attached at the ends of a 130-inch Springbase give the riding comfort and road steadiness heretofore possible only with cars of long wheelbase and great weight, yet Overland 4 retains the light weight and economy advantages of 100-inch wheelbase.

Three-Point Cantilever Springs protect the car from the hammering and wear of road blows. They lengthen its life and reduce upkeep costs.

Equipment of Overland 4 is dependable and complete from Auto-Lite Starting and Lighting to Tillotson Carburetor.

250,000 miles of test have made the strength and endurance of this car a matter of record.

See Overland 4 at the first opportunity. Ask for booklet. Overland 4 Touring, $845; Roadster, $845; Coupe, $1325; Sedan, $1375. Prices f. o. b. Toledo.

"Stay in School."
Does it pay to continue your studies? Education means a successful and useful life; it pays the individual. Education means efficient workers; it pays the nation. Show this to your parents and ask them what they think about it. Stay in school.—Colorado Agricultural College News Notes.

Our Different Worlds.
I once stood in a dome with different colored glass in each window. Thus four men touching each other might each see a different scene; a red ocean, a green city, blue fields, and yellow mountains. A rare man might climb to the top of the dome and see the whole circle of the landscape under the white light of a pure atmosphere. But most of us look through one window, each upon a different world, each world colored by our own individuality.—Robert S. Barrett.

When News Is Not News.
The supreme court has held that news is property. Some of it is, and then some is "improvements thereon."

Utilizing Paper.
Although there is a great shortage of paper, it is unlikely that many of us have carried economy to the extent indicated in a letter received by a school teacher the other day. "Dear Sir," it ran, "Please excuse Tom being late, but our gas leaks, so we couldn't cook any breakfast. Please send a man to put it right. P. S.—Please let him take this note on to the plumber."

Colorado's Wonderland.
The Garden of the Gods is a tract of land, about 500 acres in extent, near Colorado Springs, Colo. It abounds in weird and fantastic pinnacles of red and white sandstone, some of them more than 300 feet high. Among the chief features are the Cathedral Rock, the Balanced Rock, etc. The gateway of the garden consists of two enormous masses of red sandstone, feet high, sufficiently far apart to allow a roadway to pass between them.

Great Men.

Great men hallow a whole people and lift up all who live in their time.—Sydney Smith.

"Boaker Time" is a useful. The term a "boaker" which the Australians use to describe a cheerful fellow, comes home to its birthplace, little altered. "Boaky" with a shaller meaning, was an English colloquialism in the eighteenth century. And "boaky" is still current slang with us, but implying too generous use of the wine cup. There is one phrase in the book of slang which is decidedly pleasing. "Australian grip." It sounds for that best of greetings, the honest, hearty hand shake.—London Chronicle.

FENNER'S WAREHOUSE

WALNUT STREET.

DANVILLE, KY.

We wish to announce to the Tobacco Growers adjacent to the Danville Tobacco Market that we will open our Warehouse for the sale of Tobacco on

WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 3

We will receive Tobacco on and after, Monday, November 17.

It gives us great pleasure to inform you that Tobacco in North Carolina and all Eastern Markets is much higher this season than ever before and we see no reason why the Kentucky Tobacco should not sell at High Prices. With the outlook of Prices being high, it is more necessary than ever that you be very careful in selecting a market to sell your Tobacco on where there is strong competition and assurance of getting the highest market price at all times. This we guarantee to do. We have one of the strongest corps of buyers in the state—all of the big companies are represented on our market, buying direct, thereby eliminating the middle man.

In order to care for the ever-growing market there has been erected in Danville a large and up-to-date Redrying Steam Plant, which will be worth a great deal to the farmers who sell their Tobacco on the Danville Market. These people will be big buyers on all grades of Tobacco, thereby creating new competition.

In order to avoid the congestion in the handling of Tobacco, which prevailed last season, we have built a big annex to our present Warehouse, which enables us to handle and sell your Tobacco to a much better advantage than ever before.

Our Mr. Ralph Pitt, who has had twenty-six years of actual experience in the operation of Tobacco Warehouses is in a class to himself and if you will bring your first load to us he will thoroughly demonstrate to you that it will be money in your pocket to sell your tobacco with us.

We wish to announce that Mr. Holland, better known as "Dock" will be our Auctioneer again this season, also J. Lee Murphy who has been connected with the Danville Tobacco Market for the past ten years will be associated with us this season and will be glad to serve his many friends at FENNER'S WAREHOUSE. Thanking you in advance and trusting you will visit our opening sale on DECEMBER 3rd,

We are Yours Very Truly,
